Dear Dr. Jane Doe,

Can be improved by explaining what specific opportunity you are writing about

Because they used MTM in job description it's okay to abbreviate

Thank you for extending this opportunity to students at the University of South Carolina. During my introductory rotation at StoneRidge Pharmacy under Sally Roberts, PharmD, I successfully completed MTM services for several patients throughout the month including CMRs. One such service allowed me to positively impact a member of the community as it provided a husband with a complete list of medications for his wife to be used when they attend healthcare appointments. This seemingly small service of simply providing an accurate and up to date list of medications reminds me to conduct each patient interaction seriously.

In pursuing my MHA degree, I am grateful for all opportunities to improve patient outcomes. Having learned about our healthcare system in depth, I personally strive to educate on the importance of adhering to medications as well as ensuring patients are on appropriate medications. During my time as an intern with CVS Pharmacy, I made weekly adherence calls to a variety of patients. While in truth these calls were brief, it allowed me to hone my over-the-phone conversational skills and professionalism. I was grateful for the impact these short calls allowed me to make in patient adherence to medication ranging from medication synchronization to cost adjustments.

Discusses her qualifications and experience here

In my organizational role as Outreach Director for CPFI, I have worked with multiple nursing homes and their patients in recreational activities. I also often help my own grandfather, a type II diabetic, with his medication and administration. Additionally, in the past, I helped organize my grandmother's palliative medications for ease of use by my grandfather and her hospice nurses. Had I been knowledgeable enough about CMR and other MTM programs at the time, I feel my grandmother could have benefited even more.

Discusses her perspective on the need for the company's services

Shows she researched the company

Finally, in reviewing the list of 32 fundamentals, I can attest that I am proficient at listening generously, understanding, and focusing on the patient, as well as creating innovative solutions. I appreciate the opportunity to apply for this intern position to further hone and expand my skills as a future healthcare professional. Thank you again, and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Summarizes her skills, thanks them for consideration and has a call to action

Sincerely,
